

ABSTRACT

The invention concerns a method for purifying flue gases before they are released into the atmosphere of their nitrogen oxides  $N_2O$  and  $NO_x$  by reaction with ammonia by causing them to circulate at temperatures between 200 and 600 °C on a catalyst based on beta-zeolite loaded with iron. The invention is particularly useful for treating tail gases from factories producing nitric acid.